Questions

- 1. Do we know which seasonals are available, when?
- A: Doesn't look like it based on the data.

2. Loading Indicator

1

2.1 - Loading Indicator appears in the area on Home where the products will be displayed. It would be fun to do something like "Tapping the keg", "Removing bottlecap", etc. but this will probably load too fast to load that sort of thing. We'll stick with a simple animation. Would be cool to animate the Beau's logo, though.

3. Empty Products Message

1

Oh noes! There must be something wrong... we'll look into it right away! Check back again in a few minutes and hopefully we'll have it sorted out.

Notes

- 3.1 - Page that gets displayed if the call to the API fails. We should show a different message if there are no seasonal beverages found.

Beer Finder

The late addition of organic New Zealand hops gives this weissbier a fragrant nose with notes of citrus and tropical fruit. Pouring a hazy pale gold with a medium head, the palate is pleasing with ripe peach and citrus balanced by light spice notes. Creamy in texture the finish replays light spice and subtle bitterness.

Notes

- 4.1. Beer details - we'll assume that these fields are all populated
- 4.2. Beer Finder - links to the Beer Finder view
- 4.3. Beer write-up - unfortunately there is no data integrity around this. We'll have to aggressively adapt the data to be able to get something even approximately like this. In real life, we'll probably have a better write-up available.
- 4.4. Clicking the close button takes you back to the product page, so remember to retain state. However, the fact that we have a full screen view here should allow us not to render the underlying page for better performance.

Notes

- 5.1. Link back to the Beer Details view
- 5.2. Show the searched for beer name
- 5.3. Closing takes them back to the Home view
- 5.4. Postal code input - we'll auto-populate this with a best-guess service when we first load the view. After the user changes it, their entry should be saved. Ideally we'd save with session storage... not sure if there's privacy concerns with that. For now, we'll lose this when they close the browser or refresh, so it'll live in the local JS store.
- 5.5. This will toggle the hours open and closed because hours create lots of visual noise.
- 5.6. This is the whole list. Note that we'll have to display the loading indicator.
- 5.7. We'll have to convert from meters, and also clean up the display of numbers.
- 5.8.
